“

Choosing ABGi for our R&D work was very straightforward; Chris Barker, their sales agent, was informative without being pushy, and this established a high level of trust, which differentiated ABGi from their competition.

We had just been successful in obtaining a patent on our core product range; it was therefore important that we found a company that could offer an effective Patent Box service. This was the initial reason that convinced us to give ABGi a try. It was a new opportunity that we could not afford to miss. We also preferred a fixed fee structure, which ABGi were happy to accommodate.

The impact of Patent Box will be highly significant for us, and our company is very happy with the service we have received so far.

What stood out for us? The data collection process was well structured and efficient, which we really appreciated. But it's the ABGi people, like Chris, Jonathan, and Taylor, who have really made the difference. They are knowledgeable, they keep in touch, and they are always ready to help. Electing into Patent Box has now led us to select ABGi for our R&D expenditure credit evaluation to ensure we are ready for the new, more stringent HMRC reporting requirements.

Would we recommend ABGi? Definitely. They have been efficient; they have a great team and have been very easy to work with. They offer services, like the Patent Box and R&D expenditure credits, that can generate significant tax savings for a business like ours.
